DAVID E. JONES DEAD.

Buried Sunday Afternoon—Members G. A. R. and S. of V. Attended Funeral.

David E. Jones, who had resided in Reynoldsville a quarter of a century, died at his home on Worth street at 6:15 a. m. Friday, June 23, 1905, as the result of an act committed by his own hands while suffering from mental debility. For a year or two Mr. Jones had become more serious as the months passed by and the death of a daughter-in-law on June 18, and burial June 20, increased his trouble. The family became alarmed about his condition and were arranging to take him to a hospital for treatment. Last Wednesday afternoon Mr. Jones slipped into the cellar, or wash house, and with a paring knife severed the arteries in both wrists. He had not been gone long until the family missed him and heard a groan and hastening to the wash house found him lying on the floor. Two or three doctors were quickly summoned and they did what they could to save his life, and on Thursday had hope of his recovering, but his heart, which had been weak for sometime, failed from loss of so much blood and his life ebbed out as stated above.

David Jones was born near Ebensburg, Cambria Co., Pa., January 1, 1839, and was in his 67th year at time of death. During the rebellion, when his country called for soldier boys to shoulder a musket and go out to meet the enemy in bloody combat, Mr. Jones enlisted in Company F, 145th regiment, P. V. I., and afterwards joined Company C, 6th regiment, P. Vol. While in the army, just after having his hair clipped close, he slept on frozen ground, and ever after that he had more or less trouble with pains in his head, which grew worse as he grew older. The past two years he had not been able to do any reading on account of the pain in his head. He always did considerable reading until the past two years.

November, 1867, Mr. Jones was united in marriage to Eliza Stiles at Ebensburg, Pa. In 1870 they moved to Reynoldsville and resided here ever afterwards. He was a cooper by trade, but for a number of years he worked in coal mine. What little work he did the past two or three years was done in a cooper shop of his own.

Mr. Jones is survived by his widow, three sons and three daughters, Merton E., Herbert P., Olive C., Sara A., Walter M. and Sabena Jones, two brothers and one sister, Robert E. and Jonathan Jones, of Ebensburg, and Mrs. John Howe, of Somerset.

Funeral service was held at the family residence at 4:00 p. m. Sunday, conducted by Dr. J. A. Parsons. The Grand Army and Sons of Veterans attended the funeral in a body. Interment was made in Beulah cemetery. Mr. Jones was a member of the Congregational church at Ebensburg a number of years.

Robert E. Jones, Jonathan Jones, of Ebensburg, and Aretus Stiles, of Glen Hope, were the out of town relatives who attended the funeral.
